Now that General MacArthur and the Army are cooperating with the police in Washington, sedition will seek cover and disorder will end. However one may view the influx of Veterans, communists and others of like ilk to the National Capital, the way in which the situation was handled by the local authorities, and the policies which led up to the disturbances, the fact stands out that in the final analysis it is the Regular Forces upon which the government relies for preservation and the maintenance of law and order. The country can be certain of the flawless loyalty of the Army, the Navy and the Marines, and the men who hold reserve commissions. It can be certain, also, that under General MacArthur's direction, Washington will be restored immediately to its normal calm, restored with every consideration shown for human life and human rights.

The official figures showing the changes in the cost of living between December 1914 and 1932, issued a few days ago by the Department of Labor, furnish irrefutable proof of the injustice under which the Army and Navy are suffering, both as a result of the failure to revise the pay schedules and the enforced furlough imposed upon the commissioned personnel. The increase in the cost of living from December 1914 and June 1932 ranged from a minimum of 25% in Savannah, Georgia, to 44.8% in New York. The decrease in the cost of living from June 1929 to June 1932 ranged from a minimum of 16.9% in Portland, Maine, to a maximum of 22.8% in Chicago, Ill. Between 1914 and 1932, the cost of food is stated to be practically back at the pre-war level. Everything else is substantially up. Yet the Services are on pay schedules of 1908, with the meagre revision of a decade ago, while every other branch of the Government received far greater increases on account of the living cost advance. It is clear from the Government's own figures that fair play demands the relief of the Army and Navy from the furlough order, and at the coming session Congress should so provide.

The experience of Mr. Blanton in the Texas Primary may well serve as a warning to members of the House, who are constantly assailing the Services and seeking by reduced appropriations to weaken and ultimately destroy their strength and efficiency. Mr. Blanton won re-nomination by the skin of his teeth, and, therefore will continue to be with us. But it is clear from the increase in the opposition to him over previous primaries that a policy of pin-pricking does not sit well with the voters. Mr. Collins is opposed by a strong National Defense candidate in his District. In his case as well as that of Mr. Blanton, the record is clear. He made every effort to reduce the commissioned strength of the Army by one-sixth, pursuing tactics that were sharply criticised (Please turn to Page 1120)

Call Army to Restore Order in Capital City

The Third Corps Area seethed with activity on Thursday, July 28, when the President, at the request of the District Commissioners, called upon the War Department to restore law and order in the District of Columbia.

Despite the efforts of Brig. Gen. Pelham Glassford, USA-Ret, superintendent of Washington police, the situation had reached a point where the local police force was unable to cope with the Bonus Expeditionary Force without undue bloodshed.

At 2.55 p. m. July 28 the Secretary of War gave the following orders to General Douglas MacArthur.

Text of Order

"To: General Douglas MacArthur, Chief of Staff, U. S. Army.

"The President has just informed me that the civil government of the District of Columbia has reported to him that it is unable to maintain law and order in the District.

"You will have United States troops proceed immediately to the scene of disorder. Cooperate fully with the District of Columbia police force which is now in charge. Surround the affected area and clear it without delay.

"Turn over all prisoners to the civil authorities.

"In your orders insist that any women and children who may be in the affected area be accorded every consideration and kindness. Use all humanity consistent with the due execution of this order.

"Patrick J. Hurley,
"Secretary of War."

General MacArthur proceeded immediately to personally supervise the situation. Brig. Gen. Perry L. Miles, commanding the 16th Brigade, was placed in charge of the troops.

General Miles instructed his officers as follows:

"We are acting on the order of the President of the United States. The cavalry will make a demonstration down Pennsylvania avenue. The infantry will deploy in line of skirmishers in the rear of the cavalry. You will surround the areas on Pennsylvania avenue between Third and Fourth streets and evict the men in possession there. Use care and consideration toward all women and children who may be in this area."

The units which actually were in downtown Washington were the 3rd Battalion of the 12th Infantry, from Ft. Washington, with Lt. Col. Louis A. Kunzig, Inf., commanding; 2nd Squadron, 3rd Cavalry, Maj. Alexander Surles, commanding; platoon of tanks from Co. B, 1st Tank Regiment, Ft. Meade, Md., commanded by 1st Lt. Bob Childs, Inf.; headquarters and Headquarters Company, 16th Brigade, under Capt. Alexander R. Bolling, Inf. These troops total about 700.

Other officers who were with the troops on duty in downtown Washington included:

General Miles' staff—Lt. Col. James M. Lockett, Inf., Capt. Horace B. Smith, and 1st Lt. John B. Sherman.

Services Compete in Olympics

Eighteen officers of the Army and Navy will take part in the Olympic Games which get underway today at Los Angeles, having been selected to represent the United States after successfully competing with the best the country has to offer in the fields of sport.

Besides heading the American Fencing Team, to Lt. George C. Calnan, CC, USN, goes the honor of taking the Olympic oath for the entire assemblage of athletes from all parts of the world, during the spectacular opening exercises to be held today.

From the 15 Army officers who have been training at Fort Rosecrans, eight were selected to comprise the Olympic equestrian team. Announcement was made this week that members of the team would be: Maj. Harry D. Chamberlain, Cav, USA; Capt. Hiram E. Tuttle, QMC, USA; Capt. Isaac J. Kitts, FA, USA; Carl A. C. Moore, Cav, USA; Capt. Edwin Y. Argo, FA, USA; Capt. William B. Bradford, Cav, USA; 1st Lt. John B. Wofford, Cav, USA, and 1st Lt. Earl F. Thomson, Cav, USA.

Representing the United States in the gruelling pentathlon competition are 2nd Lt. Brodener W. Brady, Inf, USA; 2nd Lt. C. J. Mansfield, Cav, USA, and 1st Lt. R. W. Mayo, FA, USA, who were selected for the team some months ago after final tryouts at West Point.

Training of Reserve Officers

The War Department has initiated a program of training for reserve officers at Service Schools which will result in having by 1938, a Reserve officer graduate of the Reserve Officers' Course of the appropriate service school with each battalion or squadron, each brigade headquarters, and each general hospital of the Organized Reserves, and ten graduates with each Reserve Division Headquarters.

The following are the Reserve units now organized:

Base Budgets for 1934 on Full Pay Schedules

While new decisions and interpretations on the application of the Economy Act continued to be made this week, it was learned that the budgets now being prepared for the fiscal year 1934 by the Army and Navy are based on the regular pay schedules and not on the reduced economy schedules.

Thus, it appears likely that the budgets that will go before the next session of Congress will carry funds for full pay. Under such a program continuation of the reduced schedules would have to be initiated by the Congress.

Meanwhile, the War and Navy Departments and the Comptroller General's office continue to interpret the bill to carry out the wishes of Congress.

The War Department has prepared a complete interpretation of the act from the standpoints of both administration and accounting.

The Navy Department, which has some of its civilian field activities on a five day week, sent out the following despatch to all Naval Stations on July 23:

"Department considers all Commissioned officers, Warrant Officers, nurses and enlisted men as on duty at all times except when on authorized furlough or on unauthorized absence."

In response to questions from the Secretary of the Navy, the Comptroller General this week made the following ruling:

The Honorable,
The Secretary of the Navy.
Sir:

There has been received, by your indorsement of July 16, 1932, request for decision upon points as follows:

"(1) In letter of July 5, 1932, the Secretary of the Navy advised Rear Admiral Ridley McLean U. S. Navy as follows:

"On July 1, 1932, you entered the upper half of the list of Rear Admirals in the Navy upon the retirement of Rear Admiral William D. MacDougall, U. S. Navy."

"Section 201 of reference (a) provides: 'All provisions of law which confer upon civilian or noncivilian officers or employees of the United States Government or the municipal government of the District of Columbia automatic increases in compensation by reason of length of service or promotion are suspended during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1933; but this section shall not be construed to deprive any person of any increment of compensation received through an automatic increase in compensation prior to July 1, 1932.'

Inasmuch as the entry of Admiral McLean into the upper half of the list involves increased compensation, but is not due to 'length of service' nor is it a 'promotion', it does not appear that it falls under the suspension contained in Section 201. It is therefore recommended that the Comptroller General of the United States be requested to decide whether Rear Admiral Ridley McLean, U. S. Navy, is entitled to the pay and allowances provided by law for an admiral of the upper half on and after July 1, 1932.

"(2) In the case of officers who are promoted to higher rank and/or enter another pay period by reason of length of service during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1933, does section 201 prohibit the payment of increased rental and/or subsistence allowances as provided in the act of June 10, 1922.

"(3) In decision of July 8, 1932, A-43276, the Comptroller General of the United States stated that:

American Newspapers View Disorders In Germany; See Trouble Ahead

Recent disorders in Germany, put down only by the declaration of martial law and the setting up of a dictatorship in Prussia, indicate trouble ahead for the Fatherland, American newspapers agree. Conflicts between the right and left wings for power, the rivalry of Hitler, General von Schleicher and von Papen, and other factors give little promise for peace and stable government, it is thought.

"Martial law in Berlin and a dictatorship in the State of Prussia, decreed by the German Government," states the Philadelphia Public Ledger, "are the result of violence and bloodshed during the last three weeks which have caused 200 fatalities and 1200 other casualties. . . . Presumably the stringent measures will be in effect only until after the July 31 Reichstag elections. But the disposition toward violent action in Germany has for some time been manifest and is causing no little worry in Europe. Now that President von Hindenburg and Chancellor von Papen have taken the matter in hand, the rioting and other disorder should be effectively curbed. But two political parties, both ready and eager to employ violence to gain their ends, do not augur a happy future for Germany."

"The stern measures which von Papen has taken and which President von Hindenburg has approved may facilitate for the time the suppression of the killings and the wantonness against which they were directed," comments the Baltimore Sun. "But whatever degree of pacification results will be achieved at the price of greater bitterness and danger not only in Prussia but in Bavaria and the southern states, which have been growing apprehensive about the extension of the Reich's powers over local affairs. A dictatorship may quell for the moment the violence, but it will hardly put down the political emotions from which the violence has sprung."

"Moderation would be more influential in dealing with those emotions, but moderation is the one quality which seems to be lacking among the Nazis, whose political star would seem to be now approaching the zenith. As long as it is not in evidence the outlook for real social and political stability in Germany cannot be very bright."

"Whatever else is to be said of the Von Papen Government, latest assertions of its authority over turbulent north Germany," says the New York Herald-Tribune, "there can be no quibbling with the Berliner Tageblatt's opinion that 'the government is playing a dangerous game.' It is essentially General Kurt von Schleicher's game, and General von Schleicher is neither forwarding Adolf Hitler's personal aspirations nor catering to the ideology of national socialism. His unstated but clearly understood objective is to get Hitler and his following into a position where he can control and use them; but the results of his strategy up to date appear to be so far removed from his objective that a majority of the German people are seeing nothing in the imposition of a dictatorship upon Prussia and of martial law upon the nation but a surrender to Hitler and Hugenberg pressure, of which they are heatedly resentful. . . . It is not strictly fair, however, to assume that this is the real significance of the arbitrary measures. It seems very likely that neither President von Hindenburg, nor Chancellor von Papen, nor General von Schleicher intends that it shall work out that way. The German public has lost sight of the fact that martial law, which makes Von Schleicher and Franz Bracht dictator of Prussia, gives the army, of which he is the political as well as titular chief, extraordinary police authority over the Nazis as well as over their antagonists. . . . It is suggested that, in the face of widespread popular resentment and of a threatened general strike, Von Schleicher is now prepared to use the army to bring the troublesome semi-military units together under his personal discipline and control."

"Decision of the German Government to set up a temporary military rule in Prussia has two obvious motives," the New York Times declares. "One is to put an end to the violent political clashes which have already resulted in a long and really appalling list of deaths and casualties. . . . In addition, the evident intention of Chancellor von Papen is to take a step which is political as well as social. The election of a new Reichstag is to take place on July 31, and the Government's show of strength and vigor ought to have a marked influence in keeping down the Hitler vote."

"A constant assertion of Hitler has been that he alone can give Germany a really strong government, capable of suppressing internal disorders and presenting a bold front to other nations. He may now complain that the Chancellor has been stealing his thunder."

"But what the election may eventually lead to is not clear," comments the Providence Journal. "In fact, the very diversity of German ideas concerning proper program for the nation has been for months most confusing not only to the people of Germany but to the citizens of other countries as well, particularly in Europe."

"The ineptitude which plunged Germany into the Great War and led to national ruin seems clearly repeated in the proceedings of the new Government, which seems to court all possible trouble for the republic," states the Boston Evening Transcript.

In reserve at Ft. Myer, Va., were the 1st Battalion, 12th Infantry, from Ft. Howard, Col. W. W. Taylor, Jr., commanding; Detachment of the 34th Infantry, from Ft. Meade, Md., Maj. Carl J. Adler, commanding; 13th Engineers from Ft. Humphreys, Maj. John R. D. Matheson, commanding; platoon of tanks from Company B, 1st Tank Regiment, Ft. Meade, Md., Capt. John Sandling, commanding; and Machine Gun Troop, 10th Cavalry, Ft. Myer. The 16th Field Artillery, normally stationed at Ft. Myer, happened to be at Ft. Hoyle training CMTC students so were not called upon at all.

Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, commanding of the Third Corps Area, with headquarters in Baltimore, and his Judge Advocate General Col. John D. P. Quinlan, of his staff, arrived in Washington on orders from the War Department.

Colonel Quinlan is considered an expert on riot conditions and martial law operations.

Late yesterday afternoon the situation seemed to have been pretty well in hand. By the use of tear gas the bonus marchers had been driven from all but one or two small plots of government property. Secretary Hurley announced that they would be given a time limit to move from those before the troops would be ordered to proceed against them. The property from which they had been driven was guarded by troopers.

Regional Rifle Matches Set

Despite that the National Rifle and Pistol Matches will not be held this year, the national rifle and pistol trophies of the National Rifle Association will be placed in competition as usual for the shooters of the country. The trophies are being apportioned among a number of regional, or "Little Camp Perry," meets which have been organized or are being cooperated in by the N. R. A.

In addition to the trophies, the regulation N. R. A. Camp Perry medals will be provided by the association for award in all Camp Perry matches included in the programs of the various shoots. Camp Perry conditions will govern the N. R. A. events.

Plans for shoots in five of the nine army corps areas have been completed and arrangements for similar shoots in three other corps areas are progressing. The abandonment of the proposed meet at Sea Grit, N. J., leaves the second area without a shoot within its boundaries but two nearby meets, one at Wakefield, Mass., and the other at Quantico, Va., will afford the marksmen of that area ample competition shooting within easy reach.

The majority of the Adjutants General of the states are cooperating and in all cases the Commanding Generals of the nine corps areas have indicated their desire to assist.

The First Corps Area shoot will be the annual tournament of the United Services of New England over the Camp Curtis Guild ranges at Wakefield, Mass., from August 7 to 14. To these matches have been assigned the Coast Guard rapid-fire trophy and the Crowell trophy. Other Camp Perry N. R. A. matches to be fired for the regulation Camp Perry medals are the Individual Civilian Club Members match, the Camp Perry Instructors' trophy match, the President's Match and the N. R. A. Members' match. These are in addition to the long list of the United Service's annual trophy matches.

The shoot for the Third Corps Area will be held over the Marine ranges at Quantico, Va., August 24 to 28, the final day set aside for small bore competitions. In the arranging of these matches, the officials of the N. R. A. and the Marine officers are cooperating. The Marine Corps, Herrick, Enlisted Men's Team and President's match trophies have been allotted, with the exception of the Cavalrymen's Cup in the President's match which has been assigned Fort Bliss, Tex., a cavalry post. Other Camp Perry rifle matches on the program for medal awards are the Scott trophy, N. R. A. Members', Leech Cup and Coast Guard trophy matches. In addition, the usual series of Camp Perry pistol and revolver matches, including the individual championship over the National Match course and probably the team championship, are listed.

The Fourth Corps Area meet will in all probability be held at Camp McClellan, Ala., during a period of September to include Labor Day.

Camp Perry is the site selected for the fifth corps area matches but the program will include only small bore events. The Sixth Corps Area matches will be held at Fort Sheridan, Ill., from August 31 to September 5. The trophies assigned to it by the N. R. A. include the Wimbledon Cup, the A. E. F. Roumanian Team trophy, the Individual Long Range Small Bore trophy and the Two-Man Team Long Range Small Bore trophy.

Definite arrangements have not been completed for the Seventh corps area but it appears probable that Col. C. E. Stodter, former Director of Civilian Marksmanship, will be able to arrange matches at Fort Des Moines where he is now commanding officer. The Iowa Bankers' Association and the Iowa State Rifle Association will cooperate with Col. Stodter if the meet is arranged. Additional information may be procured from the N. R. A. or Col. Stodter, Fort Des Moines.

The Eighth Corps Area matches will be the Far Southwest Rifle, Pistol and Shotgun meet at Fort Bliss, El Paso, Tex., September 26 to October 1, with the Navy Cup and the Cavalrymen's Cup, the latter in the President's match, for .30 caliber rifle competition, the Individual Short Range trophy for small bore competition and the Clarke trophy for pistol competition. Other Camp Perry events will be the Coast Guard trophy matches, the N. R. A. Members' Match and the Wimbledon Cup match for the .30 caliber shooters and the Two-Man Team Long and Short Range matches for the small bore marksmen. Programs may be obtained from Dick Cunningham, Chamber of Commerce Building, El Paso, Tex.

Final arrangements have not been completed for the Ninth Corps Area matches. It appears likely that competition for the shooters of the northwest will be provided at Fort Lewis, Wash.

Ft. Benning Notes

Ft. Benning, Ga.—Fort Benning's water supply facilities are to be augmented by a storage basin which is now being dredged on Amory Creek near the auxiliary plant and which will add one and one-half million gallons of water for domestic purposes at the post. A steam shovel crew employed by the post quartermaster has been working on the new basin for several days and will have it ready for the reception of water within the next few weeks.

Excavations for the new group of non-commissioned officers quarters were begun by subcontractors last week. Building materials are being assembled on the ground by other contractors and work will go forward on the erection of the buildings upon completion of the excavation in about three weeks. Nine sets of quarters for non-commissioned officers and 88 garages are to be erected under contract.

In anticipation of the approval of the provision of the relief bill providing for an appropriation for erection of barracks at Fort Benning, a board of officers headed by Maj. Thomas B. Catron is making a study of the probable interior design of the new structure with a view to proper allocation of space to the organizations which are to occupy it.

A unique military formation took place at Fort Benning on Thursday morning when the 2nd Battalion 29th Infantry marched to the quarters of Lt. Col. James M. Churchill to bid him and his family goodbye upon their departure for Washington, D. C., where Colonel Churchill is to be on duty in the office of the Chief of Infantry.

Headed by the band and commanded by Maj. Lyman S. Frasier, the battalion marched to Vibbert Avenue near post headquarters where it formed in line. The officers then called in a body at Colonel Churchill's quarters, after which the colonel passed between the extended ranks of his former battalion which stood at "present arms" while he bade farewell to each company.

More than 200 reserve officers attended a demonstration of the rifle company in attack with supporting weapons, which was staged on Davidson Hill Wednesday by Company E 29th Infantry and detachments of the cannon company of the same regiment. Capt. George J. Forster was in command of the troops during the demonstration.

For many of the reservists most of whom are commissioned in technical arms it was their first view of war strength combatant units in action and the men of the demonstration company were roundly applauded at the conclusion of the demonstration.

Maj. Gen. Campbell King, commandant of The Infantry School, issued orders on Thursday announcing the assignment of Lt. James J. Winn as aide de camp. Lieutenant Winn formerly was a member of the 29th Infantry and recently graduated from the company officers class of The Infantry School. He succeeds Lt. Mallin Craig, jr., who will be a student, The Infantry School, class of 1932-33.

SAVE WITH SIX CYLINDERS

With more than six you sacrifice economy

• • with less than six you sacrifice smoothness

If you're careful about the way you spend your dollars, you'll be extra-careful about the way you count cylinders. You won't risk your good money on too many or too few in your new low-priced car. You'll make sure of getting the very utmost in all-around economy. That means SIX CYLINDERS—No More—No Less...a new six-cylinder Chevrolet. No more—because then you'd be sacrificing Chevrolet's famous low operating cost. No less—because then you'd be sacrificing the built-in smoothness that protects a car against excessive vibration. Between the two extremes, however, you strike the happy, thrifty medium: SIX cylinders! The new Chevrolet Six costs less for gas, oil and upkeep than any other car. It stands up admirably for tens of thousands of miles. And no other 1932 automobile has been proved dependable in the hands of so many thousands of owners. When buying your new low-priced car, look ahead and you'll be money ahead. Choose a durable, dependable, economical Chevrolet SIX! In addition to its "perfect-type" six-cylinder engine, Chevrolet has Free Wheeling, Syncro-Mesh Gear-Shifting, Fisher Bodies! It's delightful to handle. It's thrilling to drive. It's extremely restful to ride in. And, at its reduced prices, it's now easier than ever to buy!

Naval Air Demonstration

The largest aerial demonstration ever held by the United States Navy took place at San Diego, California, July 27 under the direct command of Rear Admiral H. E. Yarnell, USN, Commander Aircraft, United States Fleet. More than 270 planes were in the air, ranging in size from the smallest single-seat fighters to the large multi-motored patrol seaplanes. All wings and squadrons, after the maneuvers, were reviewed by The Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Ernest Lee Jahncke and the Commander in Chief of the United States Fleet, Admiral Frank H. Schofield, USN.

The demonstration was witnessed by the 400 delegates to the National Editorial Association and the sports writers at the Olympics as well as the foreign journalists now in Southern California. The passing in review was the culmination of the annual Aircraft Tactical Concentration which is held at this time every year. The large number of naval aircraft now in San Diego area results from the fact that, this year, in addition to the Battle Force units regularly stationed in the Pacific, a large proportion of the aircraft attached to the Scouting Force are now in San Diego.

All units took off in the following order:

Patrol Wing, Comd. Alva D. Bernhard, USN, comprising units of four squadrons, about 36 planes;

Bombing Wing, Lieut. Comd. Hugh St. C. Sease, USN, 36 planes from two squadrons;

Observation Wing, Lieut. Comd. Ben H. Wyatt, USN, 27 planes from three squadrons;

The Cruiser Scouting Wing, Lieut. Comd. Thomas L. Sprague, USN, about forty planes from four different squadrons;

The Scouting Wing, Lieut. Comd. G. D. Price, USN, about fifty-one planes from six different squadrons including Marine Corps Expeditionary Force planes from San Diego and Marine Squadrons from the aircraft carriers, USS Saratoga and USS Lexington. There were about 18 U.S. Marine Corps planes in this wing.

The last of all was the Fighting Wing, about ninety single-seat fighters from seven different squadrons, one of which was a Marine Corps fighting squadron.

All wing commands formed columns of wings in the above mentioned order with an interval between wings of 500 yards. The Patrol Wing flew at an altitude of 1,000 feet, the Bombing Wing at 1500 feet, the Observation Wing 500 feet, Cruiser Scouting Wing, 1000 feet, Scouting Wing 1500 feet and the Fighting Wing 500 feet.

The Wing Commanders took various formations within their respective commands. High altitude smoke screens were laid by a squadron from the Bombing Wing and Fighting Plane Squadron One gave a performance of dive bombing over the landing area immediately after the review.

The primary purpose of the yearly concentration is for instruction and training in aircraft tactics, and to permit the development of the cooperative methods and spirit so essential to a large air force whose components embrace almost every type of land and seaplane. Indoctrination of new personnel is an important secondary objective. With the larger part of the aircraft units associated so closely, and under the conditions existing while so concentrated, there is every opportunity for a constant and thorough interchange and discussion of ideas and, formulation of advanced plans for the ensuing year.

The training involved in a major concentration of this kind covers almost every phase of aerial activity with the exception of gunnery. Individual training during that period includes night flying under a variety of conditions, instrument or "blind" flying, extended flights and navigational work and practice landings on the aircraft carriers. Tactical flight work is initiated with the section of three planes, develops to the squadron of 12 or 18 planes, then to the Wing or two or more Squadrons of the same type, and finally reaches the stage where entire wings of fighters, bombers, scouts, observation and patrol planes are exercised tactically in a single group, as they will be in the aerial demonstration tomorrow.

Bandit Skirmish

Lieut. Col. Calvin B. Matthews, USMC, commanding the Nicaraguan National Guard Detachment, reported to the Department that Lieut. Cecil D. Snyder (Corporal, USMC), and Lieut. Lyman S. Wriston (Private 1st Class, USMC) with the Guardia Patrol from Yali, Nicaragua, at 11 a.m., July 26th, had contact with a bandit group estimated at over two hundred under Colindres and Umanzor near Pavona, in Western Jinotega Province. The bandits used automatic weapons, rifle grenades, bombs and rifles from entrenched position and, after heavy fighting for one hour and a half, the guardia was forced to withdraw for more ammunition. Bandit casualties unknown. Guardia casualties, one killed and three wounded. Other guardia patrols were sent in pursuit of the bandit group.

Attack Bandits

Lt. Col. Calvin B. Matthews, USMC, commanding the Nicaraguan National Guard Detachment, has reported to the Navy Department that during the night of July 22 Lt. Jacob Keller (Sergeant, USMC) and a patrol of ten men from San Fernando attacked a bandit group at Ciudad Antigua, which is 10 miles east of Ocotal in the Nueva Segovia Department, capturing some rifles, ammunition and equipment, and dispersing the bandits; known bandit casualties, 4 killed.

First Practice Cruise Ends

The USS Wyoming, training ship, arrived this afternoon at Annapolis, July 25, upon the completion of the first midshipmen's practice cruise. The midshipmen, 222 members of the 1st Class and 289 members of the 3rd Class disembarked and have gone on leave until the middle of September. The Wyoming left Annapolis on June 3, and has visited Galveston, Texas, and Ponce, Puerto Rico, during the training period.

In accordance with the Navy's economy policy, the Wyoming is the only ship employed this summer for the training of the midshipmen, and two short cruises will be made by the training ship, taking one-half of the members of the 1st and 3rd classes aboard at a time.

The Wyoming will begin her second cruise with the midshipmen on August 1 and her itinerary will be: Leave Annapolis August 1, arrive Ponta Delgada August 13; leave August 16, arrive Halifax August 29; leave September 7, arrive Hampton Roads September 13; leave September 13, arrive Annapolis September 21.

Naval Observatory Construction

Two telescope domes and a new astrophysical laboratory are to be constructed at the Naval Observatory, Washington, D. C., and are scheduled for completion early in 1933. These projects are to house modern equipment of exceptional efficiency which is being obtained to expand the Navy's activities in the field of star photography.

One of the new domes will house the 40-inch Ritchey-Chretien aplantic photographic telescope now being built by Professor George W. Ritchey, the constructor of the 100-inch Mount Wilson telescope and also of the 60-inch Yerkes telescope. The construction of this dome which is to be thirty feet in diameter will include numerous novel features. Both the base and the rotating dome will be of all welded steel construction with an outer and inner steel plate shell with the space between the shells fully ventilated to insure rapid cooling of the structure to the temperature of the air during the night. By this means the heat waves which would otherwise radiate from the surface of the structure and cause minute distortion and indistinctness of the star photographs will be eliminated. A special insulating hood will be placed over the telescope itself when it is not in use, and the air inside this hood cooled to prevent the slight expansion and contraction of the telescope which might otherwise occur and cause slight errors in the photographs.

The dome will be rotated by a special mechanism differing from any used heretofore, and will provide for the automatic regulation of the speed of the dome so that it is always in line with the telescope. In addition to the usual slot, which is a well known feature of all telescope domes, a special collapsible tube will be provided which will be extended beyond the outer surface of the dome when the telescope is being used, so as to prevent any possible fogging of the photographic plates from nearby lights, and also to further prevent the passage of any remaining heat waves across the line of sight of the telescope. It is planned to operate this extensible tube so that it will also remain constantly in line with the telescope. Numerous other special features have also been incorporated in this unusual structure.

The smaller dome is to house a 15-inch wide angle photographic telescope, the contract for which has not been awarded. The buildings for the astrophysical laboratory will include space for photographic developing rooms and laboratories for examining star photographs and for astronomical research.

The Akron, with Admiral Moffett on board, left the Naval Air Station, Lakehurst, N. J., at 7 p. m. July 19, and cruised at sea until midnight when she reported her position as Vineland, N. J. At 4.30 a. m. July 20, the airship was over Fredericksburg, Virginia, and at 6.30 a. m. visited Washington, D. C. Proceeding northward, the Akron was at sea when Admiral Moffett, after an inspection of the new developed airplane hook-off device for the airship's fighting planes, climbed into a two-seated plane with Lt. D. W. Harrigan, USN, at the controls. The plane hooked-off from the Akron and landed at the Naval Air Station, Lakehurst, N. J., where Admiral Moffett changed planes and flew to Washington, D. C.

"Established in obedience to an insistent demand for an official organ for members of the American Defense and those concerned with it, The Army and Navy Journal will be published in the interest of no party; it will be controlled by no clique. Its independence will be absolute. Its interests will be directed solely to the inculcation of sound military ideas and to the elevation of the public service in all its departments.—From Vol. I, No. 1, of The Army and Navy Journal, published August 29, 1863.

SATURDAY, JULY 30, 1932

"If the people support the Army, victory can be readily achieved; if they are divided, the counsels of the Army are divided, and disaster is inevitable."—TRADITIONS OF WAR.

IT FINALLY IS DAWNING upon peoples everywhere that disarmament is complicated by many factors of equal and greater importance to world return to prosperity. Among these factors are national security, political and territorial ambitions, trade promotion, economic recovery, intergovernmental debts, etc. In a radio address delivered by Senator Borah last Saturday, he proposed an international conference which would deal with all the phases of international relations, and, among other things, reiterated the Hoover proposal that disarmament or reduction of armaments be one of the prices Europe should pay for debt cancellation or modification by the United States. In other words, this government is to bribe its debtors to reduce or abolish their defense. But it may be expected that there will be no agreement to turn the sword into a plowshare, and any reduction made will only be on the basis of national advantage. Ever since the war, there has been constant propaganda against the burdens of armament. There have been repeated conferences. When the Geneva meeting, which has just taken a recess, assembled there was general public sentiment for disarmament. No more auspicious atmosphere for agreement could have existed. Yet, in the play of governments at the Swiss resort, there appeared the underlying purpose to assure national security and protection for national interests, and that purpose prevented any final agreement. It is now stated that naval negotiations between the five great powers will be initiated, and that the Conference will reassemble next January. In the meantime, arrangements will be made for the more important economic conference, proposed by the Lausanne gathering and endorsed by Senator Borah. Whether or not there will be disarmament will depend upon its results. Thus the latter subject will continue in the realms of idealistic discussion.

OUR GOVERNMENT, of course, will assent to the proposal incorporated in the Geneva resolution for a continuance of the naval construction holiday. This has but one meaning, that the sea inferiority of the United States will continue, and even increase, and the parity granted by the London Treaty will be farther away. There is one result of this procedure which may well cause America concern—the fact that when we awaken from the dream of naval disarmament we will be forced to build many new ships at an appalling instant expense and there will be further lack of balance of our Fleet. Repeatedly, the General Board of the Navy has emphasized the necessity of a building program extending over a period of years. In the past, Congress has adopted this policy. We were glad to see it observed both by Senator Hale, Chairman of the Senate Naval Committee, and Representative Vinson, Chairman of the House Naval Committee, in the bills they sponsored during the last session. It is, perhaps, too much to hope that either of these bills will be enacted during the coming winter, but we may well point out that there is no prospect of any effective disarmament or limitation, and it therefore seems only proper to urge that there be legislation which will enable the Fleet at least to make replacements which, according to the Secretary of State, are not prohibited under the naval holiday agreement.

IT IS GRATIFYING TO REPORT that a business recovery seems to have begun, and should it continue, as the Federal Reserve Board indicates, the country may hope for better times. Resumption of prosperity will justify the refusal of Congress during the coming session to continue the hardships imposed especially upon the Services by the so-called Economy Act. We repeat, and we want the country to know, that these hardships bear more heavily upon the Commissioned personnel of the Services than any other branch of the Government. They did not share in the pay advances after the war by any means to the same extent as the members of other departments. In a time of rising prices they received pay based largely upon schedules fixed as long back as 1908. Junior officers particularly suffered, and it is these officers who are especially hit under the reductions in pay and allowances ordered by Congress and the President. Injustice also has been done the retired officers. In connection with the preparation of budget estimates, it is our hope that recommendations will be adopted for the modification at least of the hardships imposed. In any case, Congress should make a thorough investigation of conditions as they apply to the Services and, during the coming sessions, if the economy program is to continue, direct corrections which will enable officers to live decently with consequent increase to their efficiency.

THE ARMY AND NAVY AIR SERVICES heartily favor an unified policy in the development of aviation, in which military, commercial, industrial and governmental interests would participate, as proposed by W. Irving Glover, Second Assistant Postmaster General, who is Chief of the Air Mail Service. Addressing the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, Inc., in New York this week, Mr. Glover urged that our vision of the whole picture of national aviation be broadened and that it be made inter-helpful. He pointed out that the air mail appropriations for the present fiscal year were cut less than the air appropriations for the Army and Navy, and he attributed this discrimination to the public demand for the removal of "the burdens of unproductive armaments from the shoulders of the taxpayers." He urged that the people be convincingly educated in air craft through air transport, and in this way be argued there would be gained not only promotion of business prosperity but increased national security. We feel Mr. Glover should have been more considerate of the part which the Services have displayed in developing the air industry and flying safety, and should realize that it is to the interest of National Defense to encourage public use of the air and consequently enlargement of our civilian air equipment. Aside from this criticism, we can assure Mr. Glover that the Services will continue to work zealously for air development.

An Austin was dashing down a city street at 50 miles an hour and at intervals would bob into the air like a grasshopper, alight and careen madly on its course. A motorcycle policeman pursued the trinket, finally overtook it and made the driver halt.

"Believe it or not officer," replied the driver, "I've got the hiccoughs."

J. L. A.—The effect of Bulletin No. 4, War Department, 1932, on the retired status of a person who had service as an Army field clerk during the World War as of the Act of May 7, 1932, (published in Bulletin 4, W. D., 1932), provides for advancement of retired enlisted men and warrant officers to the highest "commissioned, warrant, or enlisted grade" held during the World War or Spanish-American War. A man who served during the World War as a field clerk held none of the grades mentioned; therefore, it would appear that the person referred to is not affected by the Act.

SERVICE NEWS AND GOSSIP

No Leave Required for Officers Changing Station by Automobile—The Secretary of War has ordered that paragraph 1 b, A. R. 605-180 be changed as follows:

b. By automobile.—When an officer desires to travel by automobile in changing station or traveling on duty from one place to another he will be allowed a reasonable time to accomplish the journey without unnecessary delay. If it appears that the officer has delayed unnecessarily en route, he will be required to explain the cause thereof, and the commanding officer will take such action as the circumstances require.

Previously the regulation required that where rail transportation is available an officer traveling by automobile "must travel in his own time and secure in advance a leave of absence to cover the period of travel by automobile in excess of the time allowed by rail." This, however, is rescinded by the new regulation.

Examination For Appointment in the Medical Corps—The next examination for commissions in the Medical Corps will be held September 12-16, 1932.

There are now about 34 vacancies in the Medical Department, most of which are in the Medical Corps.

General Tracy to Ft. Monroe—The original orders of Feb. 24, 1932 relieving Brig. Gen. Joseph P. Tracy as Assistant Chief of Staff, War Plans Division, on August 31, were amended this week so as to relieve him on August 1. General Tracy will go to Ft. Monroe as commandant of the Coast Artillery School and to command the 3rd Coast Artillery District. He will be succeeded as chief of the War Plans Division by Brig. Gen. Charles E. Kilbourne.

Army Chaplain's Outfit—As tentatively approved the component parts of the Army Chaplain's outfit are as follows:

Organ, folding (with suitable container).
Desk, field, complete with portable typewriter.
Books, hymn, word and music editions, Army and Navy Hymnal.
Band edition, Army and Navy Hymnal (when funds are available).
Orchestra edition, Army and Navy Hymnal (when funds are available).
The outfit will be issued on the basis of one per organization to which a chaplain is attached for duty. Future revisions of Tables of Basic Allowances of Arms and Services concerned will list the following item:

Outfit, chaplain's—(1) per organization to which a chaplain is attached. (Such components to be taken into the field as authorized by the commanding officer.)

The inclusion of a typewriter and mimeograph machine as additional components of the Chaplain's outfit was not favorably considered. Requests for the temporary use of these items should be made to proper authority as requirements arise. In view of the present deficiency in funds the Quartermaster may not be able immediately to fill requisitions for the Band and Orchestra editions of the Army and Navy Hymnal. It is suggested, however, that the purchase of either or both is legitimately chargeable to Chaplains' and Bands' funds.

The office of the Chief of Chaplains receives regularly copies of the official publication of the chaplains of the army of Holland. Since no member of the staff is familiar with the Dutch language they will forward the "Het Wachtwoord" to any chaplain who will promise to read it and furnish a brief review of each issue for the editor of The Army Chaplain.

The office of the Chief of Chaplains is advised that the chairs in some War Department theatres are being replaced. These chairs are in very good condition, are suitable for chapel use and may be had upon requisition. For further information chaplains should either write directly to this office or to the Motion Picture Department, The Adjutant General's Office.

The importance of the chaplain's wife in relation to his activities as well as to our work in general is held in high regard, although no official record of such can be made. It is seldom, however, that a post, by the appointment of a chaplain, receives the services of two ordained ministers. Mrs. Dorothy V. Phillips, wife of our chaplain at Ft. George G. Meade, is a fully ordained minister of the Baptist Church.

"Packed Galleries"—Apparently, Geneva follows our time-worn custom of packing the galleries at political conventions. The New York Times reports, in connection with the resolution finally evolved by the Disarmament Conference, that when Mr. Gibson described our opposition to global budgetary limitations "as unfair to nations like the United States, which has already drastically reduced its armaments," "the public gallery vocally expressed skepticism." This is the apparent popular recognition extended to us for failing to build up the Navy to the Treaty limits and maintaining an Army of negligible strength. It is moreover an indication of the attitude preserved in the light of the proposal of the President for a simple, direct cut in all armaments. However, the American pacifists need not be concerned. The Conference promises further talk and another meeting next January, when there will be more talk. We wonder in view of what has transpired whether Congress will agree to make another appropriation for a discussion which is wasteful both of time and money.

President Praises C.M.T.C.—Every year since President Hoover has been in office, the young men from the Citizens Military Training Camps near Washington have visited the White House for a photograph with the President.

This year the Camps from Fort Washington and Fort Myer made their visit on July 20th. They were formed in separate groups for the pictures, and the President made brief remarks to each Camp, saying he was glad to see them at the White House, that the C.M.T.C. is a valuable element in our plans for National Defense, and also in building citizenship, and that he was strongly in favor of maintaining this activity, and was glad that it had not been necessary to reduce it.

Colonel Harry N. Cootes, 3rd Cav., Commanding Fort Myer, and Major W. C. Warner, Cav., Res., Commander of the Camp, brought over some 335 trainees, and there were about 825 from Fort Washington, Lt-Colonel L. A. Kunzig, 12th Inf., Commanding, with Colonel W. T. Chantland, Inf., Res., Camp Commander. Both Camps were accompanied by very good bands.

Air Corps Detachment at Barksdale Field, La., to Be Formed—War Department orders are being issued to the Commanding General Eighth Corps Area to transfer 17 enlisted men of the Air Corps from Kelly Field, Tex., and 18 from Randolph Field, Tex., to form the Air Corps Detachment at Barksdale Field, La. The movement to be by air and to be completed prior to Aug. 16, 1932.

The present garrison at Barksdale Field consists of 6 officers and 8 enlisted men. When completed this field will be the station of the Third Attack Wing, consisting of the Third Attack Group, now at Ft. Crockett, Tex., and the 16th Pursuit Group to be made active at Barksdale Field about December 1, 1932.

Officers for Submarine Training.—A class in submarine training for about twenty-five officers will be convened at the Submarine Base, New London, Conn., on January 4, 1933. The orders of those selected will provide for the transportation of dependents to New London from present stations. The duration of the course will be approximately six months, and successful graduates will be assigned duty aboard submarines.

Candidates should submit applications in accordance with Part E, Section 3, Bureau of Navigation Manual, so as to arrive in the Bureau of Navigation not later than October 1, 1932. Despatch may be substituted for letter when necessary. Applications will be accompanied by medical officers report as to the candidate's physical fitness for submarine duty. All applications, whether or not approved, and whether or not the applicant is physically qualified, will be forwarded promptly. The commanding officer will include in his forwarding indorsement, the statement of his opinion as to the applicant's fitness for assignment to submarine duty. Candidates who have submitted requests prior to this letter will resubmit same, provided they are still applicants.

In making the above indorsement it should be considered that duty on submarines can be satisfactorily performed only by officers of ability. The safeguarding of ship and crew in submarine duty in peace time demands an alertness differing little from that needed in time of war, and commanding officers of applicants' ships should report favorably only if they feel that the candidate can be fully trusted as officer of the deck, under way.

Officers of and senior to the class of 1930, and who have completed at least two years' sea duty, are eligible for the January class. Those who are eligible are reminded that they will be eligible for submarine command at an earlier age than on any other combatant type, and that submarines offer excellent training, not only for command, but for many lines of technical duty.

Recruiting for Overseas Duty.—On the largest scale authorized in several months, Army recruiting for overseas service has been ordered reopened by the War Department. Eleven hundred and ninety volunteers will be selected for duty in Panama, Hawaii, and the Philippines. Those accepted for the Philippines must qualify before Aug. 10 and will sail from New York Aug. 26 aboard the USA T. Republic.

Of the total of 1,190 recruits to be obtained, the Second Corps Area may accept 495, the First Corps Area 175, and the Third Corps Area 520. Only the Philippine contingent will be accepted at once. The quotas for Hawaii and Panama are effective beginning Aug. 1.

Army Retirements.—Under War Department Special Orders issued this week five officers of the Army will be retired effective tomorrow, July 31. They are:

Col. Gideon H. Williams, Inf., retired on his own application after more than 32 years' service.

Col. William McK. Lambdin, FD, retired on his own application after more than 32 years' service.

Lt. Col. Byard Sneed, ADGD, retired on his own application after more than 30 years' service.

Maj. James A. McGrath, Inf., retired on his own application after more than 30 years' service.

Capt. Joseph H. Twyman, CAC, retired on his own application after more than 32 years' service.

In addition the following officers were, in orders issued this week, ordered to their homes on or about July 31 to await retirement:

Maj. William K. Evans, MC, Ft. Hancock, N. J.

Capt. Everett R. Stevens, QMC, Ft. Niagara, N. Y.

Ch. Stephen R. Wood, USA, Ft. Humphreys, Va.

Rankin Made Colonel, O. R. C.

The importance to National Defense of the Selective Service Advertising Group, a body of Reserve officers organized under the General Staff, was shown this week by the promotion of its chief, William H. Rankin, of New York, to the grade of Colonel, O. R. C.

The promotion of Colonel Rankin was notified to him by Maj. Gen. Dennis Nolan, Commanding General of the Second Corps Area, in accordance with instructions received from General MacArthur, Chief of Staff.

The Selective Service Advertising Group since its organization in the spring of 1931, has been working constantly in formulating plans under which in case of emergency there will be instant mobilization of the nation's man power. Brig. Gen. Andrew Moses, Chief of G-1, under whom the group functions, has given high praise to its activities, and it was upon his recommendation that the greater importance of the group was recognized in the promotion of its chief, Colonel Rankin.

The group comprises the following well known advertising men, all of whom rank as Reserve Officers as indicated:

Lt. Col. Carl Byoir, President, Carl Byoir & Associates; Lt. Col. R. E. Rinehart, Vice President, William H. Rankin Company; Lt. Col. Gilbert T. Hodges, Chairman of the Board of the Advertising Federation of America, and Member of the Board, The New York Sun; Lt. Col. Lee H. Bristol, President, Association of National Advertisers and Vice President, Bristol-Myers Company; Lt. Col. Kerwin H. Fulton, President, Outdoor Advertising, Inc.; Lt. Col. George F. McClelland, Vice President and General Manager, National Broadcasting Company; Maj. Ralph K. Strassman, Vice President, American Weekly, Inc.; Maj. C. Roy Dickinson, Vice President, Printers' Ink; Maj. Louis C. Pedlar, President, Louis C. Pedlar Corporation; Maj. Homer J. Buckley, President, Buckley, Dement & Company; Maj. G. Ray Schaeffer, Advertising Director, Marshall Field & Company; Maj. C. E. Walberg, O. E. Walberg, Advertising Counselor; Major Charles Hart, Publisher, Elks Magazine; Capt. K. D. Pulcifer, Publicity Director, Pennsylvania Railroad; and Mr. Hector Fuller, Director of Public Relations, Outdoor Advertising, Inc., who is General Secretary of the Group.

Colonel Rankin was originally appointed Lieutenant Colonel on March 24, 1931, in recognition of his work in planning and organizing the advertising and promotion of the Selective Service Registration of September 17, 1917. Through the use of volunteer advertising and publicity at that time over 13,400,000 men were induced to register in a single day. This was considered one of the outstanding accomplishments of advertising men during the War.

Colonel Rankin in selecting the personnel of this organization of sixteen men, recommended the appointment of eight men who served with him in the original Selective Service work in 1917, plus eight men who are now heading the different branches of all kinds of advertising.

When General Pershing read the announcement of the organization of the Selective Service Advertising Group in the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL of November 14, 1931, he said that if this organization had been trained and actively in service at the beginning of the last World War and before the entry of the United States, more than a million lives and over a billion dollars would have been saved, and the war would have ended one year before it did.

Colonel Rankin said: "Naturally I am very much elated over my promotion. It is directly due to the splendid work of the other men in the Selective Service Advertising Group and in recognition by Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Brig. Gen. Andrew Moses of the fact that this Group is worthy of having as its head an officer of the rank of Colonel. The work that has already been done and is being done by this remarkable Group of advertising men, reflects great credit upon the business of advertising and has resulted in the recognition, by the Government, of the value of advertising and advertising men in peace times as well as in time of any emergency. The Fall meeting of our Group will be held in Washington during the first week of September, and each member is now busy in preparing his report and recommendations to the Government."

FT. MONMOUTH WINS

Ft. Monmouth, N. J.—Fort Monmouth won from Fort Hancock, 4-2, June 13 in the second game of a seven-game series for the Army Championship, Monmouth County. This brings the count to 2-0, Fort Monmouth having won the first game on its home grounds on June 29th.

SILL POLOISTS WIN

Ft. Sill, Okla.—Poloists from Ft. Sill won the championship in the tournament at Anadarko on Tuesday, July 5 when they sent the home four down to defeat by a 9-4 score after winning the preliminary round from Nichols Hill Club, Oklahoma City, on July 4 by 10 to 3. The Artillery team was selected from the personnel on duty here and consisted of Capt. Gossett and Sergeant, Major Baehr and Lt. Miller.

SWIMMING AT FT. WARREN

Fort Francis E. Warren, Wyo.—Arrangements have been made through the Post Recreation Office with the management of the Crystal Swimming Pool, located in Cheyenne, Wyo., for free admission of members of this command on Wednesday afternoons during summer months. The pool is reserved for officers and their families between the hours of 1 to 3.30 and for the enlisted personnel and their families from 3.30 to 9, each Wednesday evening.

FIRST DIVISION POLO

Ft. Hamilton, N. Y.—On Sunday afternoon, July 10, the First Division Polo team journeyed to Governors Island to play the Governors Island team in the second game of the Colyer Trophy series. Although the First Division team played well and the game was very interesting to the large crowd which attended, the superb playing of Colonel J. K. Brown was the mainstay of the Islanders' team. The result was a victory for Governors Island, 10 to 6.

That same afternoon the other team of the First Division Polo Association played at Ft. Hamilton against the Oranworth Country Club of New Jersey. Lt. Stoughton and Mr. Browning played well for First Division, but against the well-mounted and hard-hitting team of Oranworth the result was not a surprise. Score: Oranworth, 11; First Division, 4.

FT. WARREN POLO TEAM SUCCESSFUL

Fort Francis E. Warren, Wyo.—The Fort Francis E. Warren polo team continued its victorious march through all opposition in the Rocky Mountain Region by annexing two out of three tournament titles in recent games at Colorado Springs, Colo.

The Warren riders defeated Broadmoor, a high goal team from Colorado Springs by a 10 to 6 score and then won from Denver in a close match, 5 to 4, to win the Booger Red Tournament.

The "Ten Goal Tournament" was won by Denver in a thrilling battle by a score of 9-6 on July 10. This was the only set-back suffered by the visiting army team.

Warren gained revenge on the strong Denver team by eliminating them from the Open Tournament on July 13 with a crushing 10 to 6 win and followed this up with a hard earned victory over the Broadmoor club on July 15. The score in this, the final game, was 10 to 9.

Maj. William R. Wolfe, VC; Lt. Paul R. Covey, FA; Lt. Arthur E. Solem, FA, and Lt. Robert C. Aloe, Inf. (DOL), comprised the team. These men have been playing together all season and their work in the tournaments recorded above speaks well for the spirit and teamwork so essential in producing winning teams.

38TH INFANTRY SUCCESSFUL

Ft. Sill, Okla.—The 38th Infantry ball club which copped the pennant in the first half of the split season at the Field Artillery School with a mark of 10 wins and no defeats still has a clear record in the first week of the second half of the season. Sharing the top run of the ladder with the Infantry are the 18th Field Artillery and the Staff Troops. With all clubs scheduled for two games during the coming week, a shakedown in the standings is anticipated by the fans.

ARMY WINS JUNIOR POLO

Rumson, N. J.—For the seventh time in ten years the Army won the junior polo championship of the country.

Playing on a wet field here July 23, Lts. C. N. McFarland, McDonald Jones and George Read and Maj. C. C. Smith turned back the challenge of the Bahadur quartet, 11 to 8, in the final game of the tournament.

From the first period to the last, the Army team swung along in the lead, increasing the pressure whenever the stubbornly trying Bahadur team closed in at all and finishing with two goals in the last period that clinched things.

The losers went into action crippled at the last minute by the loss of its regular No. 1, Gerard S. Smith. Smith, who had played very well in the semi-final victory of the team, started flying from Connecticut and his plane was forced down by bad weather before reaching New Jersey. The game was postponed an hour in the hope he would be able to reach the field, but in the end, Jack Fink, another three-goal player, had to pull on boots and go in at No. 1. He played the game hard, even after a very bad fall in the sixth period, but the team play of the Bahadur four undoubtedly suffered.

The line up:

U. S. Army (11).	Bahadur (8).
1—Lt. C. N. McFarland	1—J. Fink
2—Lt. McDonald	2—G. H. Bostwick
Jones	3—Lt. Col. J. K. Brown
3—Lt. G. W. Read, jr.	Back—J. C. Rath-borne.
Smith—Major C. C.

SCORE BY PERIODS.

Army 3 1 1 1 2 1 0 2—11
 Bahadur 2 0 0 2 0 1 2 1—8
 Goals—Army: Lt. McFarland 2, Lt. Jones 4, Lt. Read 4, Major Smith. Bahadur: Fink, Bostwick 2, Col. Brown 2, Rathborne 3.
 Umpire—Capt. Wesley J. White. Referee—Edwin Stewart 3d. Time of periods—7½ minutes each.

ARMY HORSE SHOW

"Ampere" was ridden by Cpl. Steve Lichene. "Lady Luna," owned and ridden by Lt. Col. Francis A. Ruggles, G-3, of the Sixth Corps Area, won a first with other army horses in the Hunt Team Class, two seconds and one third. "Clean," owned and ridden by Maj. P. T. "Where a retired emergency officer whose retired pay exceeds the rate of $1,000 per annum holds a civilian position with compensation exceeding the rate of $1,000 per annum, the combined compensation and retired pay exceeding the rate of $3,000 per annum, the civilian compensation is subject to reduction by reason of the legislative furlough, 5-day week, or percentage reduction in compensation which must be impounded, and the retired pay also is subject to the percentage reduction which must be impounded. and opposed by members of his own party in the House of Representatives. I believe from all I hear that he will find an aroused public sentiment determined not to approve a policy aimed at American defense.

Representative Cochran, of Missouri, is a brave politician. He himself asserts in an appendix to the Congressional Record that he more often says "no" than "yes," and that he will continue to refuse to pledge his vote in advance in a primary or election for votes. This declaration of independence was the result of questionnaires sent to Mr. Cochran by members of the Army and Navy Reserves. To further emphasize his attitude, the Missourian states: "One thing is certain, the members of the Army and Navy who have been in control of military and naval appropriations will never control my vote." This is the first knowledge I have that members of the Army and Navy are in control of appropriations for their Services. If they are, they did a poor job when they permitted a reduction of nearly one hundred million dollars in the provision for National Defense for the current year. Apparently, Mr. Cochran, who voted for the officer cut, resents reserve officers displaying any activity in politics. As citizens, that is their duty, and their acceptance of commissions does not curtail their civilian rights. Mr. Cochran finds the language of their communications "objectionable." In view of his claim that he is for "a proper national defense," whatever that may mean, and that he favored reduction of the commissioned personnel of the Army, I rather infer that a crumpled rose leaf from the Services or the Reserves would cause him irritation.

It is an interesting and somewhat significant fact that the Army and Navy are represented upon the National Economy League, an organization created to make a drive for the reduction of national, state and municipal expenses. Major General Harbord is one of the leaders of the movement, General Pershing and Rear Admiral Sims are members of the Advisory Council, and Rear Admiral Byrd is temporary Chairman. The reason for the volunteer service these men are giving is obvious: It is to apply to government the special experience in keeping expenses down which they gained in the Services. General MacArthur issued an order ten days ago which could well serve as a model for copy by the President, Governors of States and Mayors of cities. He emphasized that none but necessary projects should be carried out and that all expenses, no matter of what character should be kept at a minimum. This is no new policy for either the Army or the Navy. But it is worth while for the country to know that in its Defense forces are leaders who are determined to get a dollar value for every dollar spent and to prevent not only waste but even the slightest vestage of extravagance.

The Civil Service Commission no longer will conduct preliminary examinations for West Point or Annapolis. This decision, due to lack of funds, will prove embarrassing to many candidates for Congress, who naturally have preferred reference of applicants for the Academies to the Civil Service Commission for competitive examination. There is a way for the War and Navy Departments to help out the politicians and at the same time assure continuance of a high grade of young men appearing for admission. That is for the Colleges recognized by the Departments to conduct the examinations. The School Directory of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL contains a list of institutions which could well render such service.

Chief Messenger Retired

Mr. Charles B. Davis, retired as Chief Messenger of the War Department on July 1, as a result of the Economy Bill, was presented with a gold watch from his many friends in the office of the Chief of Staff at 1 A. M., Monday, July 25, in the office of the Secretary of War.

Mr. Davis entered the War Department as a messenger on April 14, 1868, during the Presidency of Andrew Jackson and under Secretary of War Stanton. At the time of his retirement Mr. Davis had served 64 years continuously in the War Department.

To Inspect "Flying Tank"

The following release has been received from Ft. Benning, Ga.:

"A tank with wings which will enable the death-dealing machine to soar through the air to its destination back of the enemy's lines, there to carry on its deadly mission of destruction, is the vision of Walter J. Christie, builder and designer of the Army's newest and fastest tanks, of which there are several at Ft. Benning.

"Maj. Sereno E. Brett, tank member of the Infantry Board, and Capt. Llewellyn D. Tharp, of the department of experiment, both of Ft. Benning, have received orders dispatching them to Rahway, N. J., to inspect the newest model of the flying tank which Mr. Christie has just completed and which he proposes to demonstrate to Army officers. According to information received at Ft. Benning, the flying tank is somewhat similar to the present Christie tank used by the Army, but has a number of added features which make it one of the most remarkable military weapons ever built in the United States. A pair of detachable wings, an airplane propeller, and a 1000-horsepower Hispano-Suiza motor are expected to convert the tank, which without armor or armament weighs five tons, into a flying machine. The operating crew is to consist of an aviator and a tank driver, in addition to the gunners, engineers and mechanics.

"The flying features are devised to provide a rapid means of transportation of the tank to the scene of action where the detachable wings are to be dropped off and the tank employed as an ordinary land tank."

SS Manhattan Flies USNR Flag

The SS Manhattan, the new liner of the United States Lines, has been warranted by the Navy Department to fly the Merchant Marine Naval Reserve Flag, as her commanding officer, Capt. George Fried, and more than fifty per cent of her officers are members of the Naval Reserve. The Manhattan has been placed on the list of vessels approved by the Navy as useful as an auxiliary in time of war.

Captain Fried, master of the Manhattan, first entered the Naval service in 1900 and during his first enlistment was advanced to the rating of Chief Quartermaster, the highest enlisted rating. He served continuously in the Navy until 1916, when he was transferred to the Naval Fleet Reserve. During the war he was commissioned in the Naval Reserve Force and served in the USS Solace, USS Kentucky, USS Petrel, and commanded the USS Zuidervyk. Later he was navigator of the USS America, naval transport, engaged in carrying troops to Europe during the War and returning them to this country after the armistice.

Captain Fried was awarded the Navy Cross by the President on February 6, 1926, for his rescue of the crew of the British SS Antiope and in 1929 he was awarded a letter of commendation by the Secretary of the Navy for his rescue of the disabled Italian steamer Florida.

Lt. (jg) Edward A. Richmond, USNR—1st Officer, 17 Stanley Place, Yonkers, N. Y.

Lt. (jg) Edwin O. Zohne, USNR—2nd Officer, care of U. S. Lines, New York, N. Y.

Ens. Stanley H. Thompson, USNR—3rd Officer, 75-83 118th St., Richmond Hill, L. I., N. Y.

Lt. (jg) Emil Van Der Essen, USNR—2nd Asst. Engineer, 1755 Franklin St., San Francisco, Calif.

The Manhattan, 30,000 tons gross register, was built by the New York Shipbuilding Corporation, Camden, N. J., and is the largest liner built in America. She is 705 feet long, 86 feet beam, and is designed to carry 400 cabin, 500 tourist, and 200 third class passengers.

Financial Digest

According to statistics of the Federal Reserve Board, industrial activity decreased further from May to June by somewhat more than the usual seasonal amount and there was a considerable reduction in factory employment and payrolls. The general level of commodity prices advanced between the middle of June and the middle of July, reflecting chiefly a rise in the prices of livestock and meats.

Volume of industrial production, as measured by the Board's seasonally adjusted index, declined from 60 per cent of the 1923-1925 average in May to 59 per cent in June. There were large decreases in output in the steel, coal, and meat-packing industries, while at automobile factories daily average production showed a smaller decline than is usual at this season, and at woolen mills activity increased contrary to seasonal tendency. Consumption of cotton by domestic mills showed the usual seasonal decline.

At manufacturing establishments there was a further reduction of 3.6 per cent in number of employees and of 7.8 per cent in earnings between the middle of May and the middle of June.

Daily average value of building contracts awarded, as reported by the F. W. Dodge Corporation, declined in June but increased in the first half of July.

Department of Agriculture estimates as of July 1 indicate a corn crop of 3,000,000,000 bushels, the largest since 1923; a winter wheat crop of 432,000,000 bushels, 45 per cent smaller than last year and 21 per cent less than the five-year average; a spring wheat crop of 305,000,000 bushels, three times as large as last year and slightly larger than the average; and a tobacco crop one-fifth smaller than usual.

Volume of railroad freight traffic declined somewhat further in June and value of merchandise sold by department stores decreased by more than the usual seasonal amount.

"... when pay has been deducted for 24 working days at the rate of 1 1/4 days' pay per day (one month's pay), no further deduction will be made on account of furlough under Section 101 (b) and any additional absence, except on sick leave or military leave when authorized by law or regulations having the force and effect of law, will be regarded as absence without pay and charged for in accordance with rules and regulations heretofore applicable to such absences." (underscoring supplied)

Under the provisions of the legislative appropriation act as construed in this decision, officers and nurses while on authorized leave, other than sick leave, in excess of 24 working days during the fiscal year 1933 would be on leave without pay during such period. In decisions of the Comptroller General of the United States dated July 25, 1922 (2 Comp. Gen. 47) and November 21, 1922, (2 Comp. Gen. 333) it was decided that an officer is not entitled to rental and subsistence allowances for periods during which he is not entitled to pay. It is requested therefore, that decision be obtained on the question whether officers and nurses on authorized leave in excess of 24 days during the fiscal year 1933, are entitled during such periods to rental and subsistence allowances.

"(4) Article 1802 Navy Regulations, based on the act of March 4, 1917 (39 Stat. 1181) authorizes advances of pay to officers under certain conditions. A decision is requested whether the provisions of the legislative appropriation act require a deduction of 8 1/3 per cent of the amount advanced to officers under these regulations or whether a total of one, two, or three months' advance may be made without any deduction therefrom.

"(5) Section 1408 [4808] of the Revised Statutes provides:

"The Secretary of the Navy shall deduct from the pay due each officer, seaman and marine, in the Navy, at the rate of 20c per month for each person, to be applied to the fund for Navy hospitals."

In case of officers or nurses who may be on leave without pay for an entire calendar month or fractional part thereof, should a deduction at the rate of 20c per month be made for such period?"

The grade of rear admiral for purposes of pay is divided into two classes —the lower half constitutes one class and the upper half another class. The pay of rear admirals of the lower half is fixed by section 8 of the act of June 10, 1922, 42 Stat. 629, at $6,000 per annum, and the pay of rear admirals of the upper half at $8,000 per annum. The advancement of a rear admiral from the lower half to the upper half has been held to be a promotion. 8 Comp. Dec. 689; 22 id. 110. Such being the case, and as the advancement from the lower to the upper half is automatic upon a vacancy occurring in the upper half, it must be considered an automatic promotion at least for the purpose of pay within the purview of section 201 of the act of June 30, 1932, quoted in your submission. Accordingly, Rear Admiral McLean may not receive any increased compensation by reason of such advancement during the fiscal year 1933.

As to question 2 section 5 of the Pay Adjustment Act of June 10, 1922, 42 Stat. 628, provides:

"... To each officer of any of said services receiving the base pay of the first period the amount of this allowance shall be equal to one subsistence allowance, to each officer receiving the base pay of the second, third or sixth period the amount of this allowance shall be equal to two subsistence allowances, and to each officer receiving the base pay of the fourth or fifth period the amount of the allowance shall be equal to three subsistence allowances: Provided, That an officer with no dependents shall receive one subsistence allowance in lieu of the above allowances."

Section 6 of the act, as amended by the act of May 31, 1924, 43 Stat. 250 provides:

"To an officer having a dependent, receiving the base pay of the first period the amount of this allowance shall be equal to that for two rooms, to such an officer receiving the base pay of the second period the amount of this allowance shall be equal to that for three rooms, to such an officer receiving the base pay of the third period the amount of this allowance shall be equal to that for four rooms, to such an officer receiving the base pay of the fourth period the amount of this allowance shall be equal to that of five rooms, and to such an officer receiving the base pay of the fifth or sixth period the amount of this allowance shall be equal to that for six rooms."

"An officer having no dependent, receiving the base pay of the first or second period shall receive the allowance for two rooms, such an officer receiving the base pay of the third or fourth period shall receive the allowance for three rooms, and such an officer receiving the base pay of the fifth or sixth period shall receive the allowance for four rooms."

As the effect of section 201 of the Economy Act is to prohibit an officer from receiving the base pay of a higher pay period by reason of additional length of service or promotion, the officer is not "receiving" the base pay of a higher pay period but the base pay of the pay period which he was receiving June 30, 1932, and he is entitled to receive only the rental and subsistence allowances appertaining to the pay period he is entitled to receive. Your second question is answered accordingly.

In answer to question 3, you are informed that there is nothing in the Economy Act which changes the status of an officer or a nurse on leave of absence without pay, in excess of the 24 working days' furlough required by section 101 (b) of the act of June 30, 1932. Accordingly, during such excess leave without pay no rental or subsistence allowances would be payable. 2 Comp. Gen. 47; id. 333.

The act of March 4, 1917, 39 Stat. 1181, provides:

"... hereafter advances of pay not to exceed three months' pay in any one case may be made to officers ordered to and from sea duty and to and from shore duty beyond the seas under such regulations as the Secretary of the Navy may prescribe."

In making advances of pay under this statutory provision, there should be deducted from the amount advanced 2 1/4 days' pay for each month's salary so advanced. See decision of July 8, 1932, A-43276.

In response to question 5, you are informed that the direction in section 4808, Revised Statutes, is that there shall be deducted from the "pay due each officer" at the rate of 20 cents per month to be applied to the fund for the naval hospitals. Accordingly, as no pay is due an officer for the time on leave without pay, no deduction is required. See 12 Comp. Dec. 549; 18 id. 724.

Instructions to Army

Complete instructions for administration and accounting under the operation of the Economy Act were compiled in the War Department this week and will be issued to the service as a Circular, supplementing all previous instructions on the subject.

Full information is set forth as to the methods for making out pay vouchers, what types of leave are and are not affected and the effect on Reserve and National Guard officers.

The Circular in full text follows:

Legislative furloughs, etc. I
Accounting procedure, etc. II
Annual leave with pay suspended, etc. III
Travel allowances, etc. IV
Miscellaneous provisions, etc. V

The following instructions include both administrative and accounting information for guidance of both administrative and accounting officers and supplement all previous instructions issued under both headings concerning the economy act of June 30, 1932:

The term "furlough" as used in this circular refers to the calendar month, or 24 working days, legislative furlough without pay, required by the act of June 30, 1932.

The terms "leave of absence" as used in this circular refers to authority to be absent from duty in excess of the calendar month or 24 working days' furlough. Leaves of absence will be taken without pay, except in the cases otherwise indicated in section III and in the case of sick leave of absence.

1. Legislative Furlough.—a. Statutory provisions.—Section 101 (a) of the economy act provides that the days of work of a per diem officer or employee receiving compensation at a rate which is equivalent to more than $1,000 per annum shall not exceed five in any week; that the compensation for 5 days shall be ten-elevenths of that payable for a week's work of five and one-half days; that the method of fixing the daily rate of compensation of such per diem officers and employees shall be as previously authorized by law; and that when the nature of the duties of such officers and employees shall render it advisable, the provisions of section 101 (b) may be applied. The comptroller general has held that the per diem rate of compensation of a per diem employee will be one-fifth of ten-elevenths of the former regular weekly (5 1/2 days or 44 hours) rate of compensation of employees, and that the hourly rate will be 1/5 (8-hour work day) of such per diem rate.

b. Same.—Section 101 (b) provides that each officer or employee receiving compensation on an annual basis at a rate of more than $1,000 per annum shall be furloughed without compensation for one calendar month or for such periods as shall in the aggregate be equivalent to one calendar month, for which latter purpose 24 working days (counting Saturday as one-half day) shall be considered as the equivalent of one calendar month; that when the nature of the duties of any such officer or employee render it advisable, the provisions of section 101 (a) may be applied; that no officer or employee shall, without his consent, be furloughed, under this sub-section, for more than five days in any one calendar month; and that the rate of compensation of any employee, so furloughed shall not be reduced by reason of the action of any wage board during the fiscal year 1933.

c. Same.—Section 101 (c) provides that if the application of sections 101 (a) and (b) would reduce the rate of compensation of any officer or employee below $1,000 per annum, such provision shall be applied only to the extent necessary to reduce the rate of compensation to $1,000 per annum.

4. Exemptions.—Section 102 provides that exemptions from the provisions of sections 101 (a) and (b) may be made only in cases where the public service requires that the position be continuously filled and a suitable substitute can not be provided, and then only when authorized or approved in writing by the President. Section 104 exempts any officer, position, or employment the compensation of which is paid under contract in effect on the date of this act, if such compensation may not lawfully be reduced.

e. Percentage reduction in certain cases.—Section 105 provides that in cases where the nature of the duties and periods of work make it impracticable to apply the provisions of sections 101 (a) and (b) compensation at an annual rate of more than $1,000, but less than $10,000, shall be reduced 8 1/3 per cent. With respect to salaries in excess of $10,000, see text of the section published in Finance Bulletin No. 35, 1932. National Guard officers on armory drill or field training status, and reserve officers on active duty for less than two months, are considered as coming within the provisions of this section and will not be granted furloughs.

f. Terms "officer" and "employee" defined.—Under section 104 (a) these terms as applied to the military and nonmilitary personnel of the War Department include all persons except enlisted personnel, active or retired.

g. Term "compensation" defined.—This term as defined by section 104 (b) includes base pay, longevity pay, aviation pay, additional pay for aides, additional pay for distinguished service award, etc., but does not include rental or subsistence allowances, or allowances for quarters, heat, light, and travel.

h. Basis of determining rate of annual compensation.—Section 104 (c) provides that when payment is made on a piece-work, hourly, or per diem basis the rate of compensation per annum shall be held to be the total amount which would be payable for the regular working hours and on the basis of 307 working days, or the number of working days on the basis of which such compensation is calculated, whichever is the greater.

i. Limitation on amount of retired pay.—Section 212, which is permanent legislation, provides that no person holding a civil office or position, appointive or elective, under the United States Government or the municipal government of the District of Columbia, or under any corporation, the majority of the stock of which is owned by the United States, shall be entitled, during the period of such incumbency, to retired pay for or on account of services as a commissioned officer at a rate in excess of any amount, which combined with the annual rate of compensation from such civil office or position, makes the total rate from both sources more than $3,000; that when the retired pay amounts to or exceeds the rate of $3,000 per annum, such person shall be entitled to the pay of the civil office or position or the retired pay, whichever he may elect; and that the term "retired pay" shall be construed to include credits for all services that lawfully may enter into the computation thereof. The only persons exempted from the operation of this section are regular or emergency commissioned officers retired for disability incurred in combat with an enemy of the United States. The comptroller general held in A-43206, dated July 14, 1932, published in Finance Bulletin No. 46, 1932, that this section does not affect the pay of retired enlisted men generally, but does affect those who, by reason of having had commissioned service, receive the retired pay of warrant officers. In such cases, however, the retired pay shall not be reduced below that which they would have received had they only enlisted service. The comptroller general also held in the same decision that in the case of a person in receipt of retired pay who is employed in a federal civilian office or position, the total of both salaries being in excess of $3,000, the loss sustained in the civilian office or position by operation of the five-day week legislative furlough or percentage reduction may be made up by payment of retired pay not in excess of the combined rate of $3,000 per annum to the extent that retired pay as reduced by section 106 of the act is available for that purpose.

II. Accounting Procedure.—a. Deduction from pay of officers.—A minimum of 2 1/2 days' pay will be deducted on each monthly pay voucher regardless of whether the officer has or has not been absent during the month.

When an officer is absent on furlough for an aggregate of more than two working days (exclusive of Sundays, holidays, and Saturday afternoons) during any month, deduction will be made at the rate of 1 1/4 days' pay for each working day of such absence (fractional parts of a day to be considered as a day for this purpose). If deductions previously made, together with the minimum deduction for that month, equal or exceed 1 1/4 days' furlough taken from July 1, 1932, to and including the end of the month in question, only the minimum deduction of 2 1/2 days' pay will be made for that month. When pay has been deducted for 24 working days, no further furlough deduction will be made. Any absence except on authorized sick leave, after the legislative furlough of one calendar month or for periods aggregating 24 working days' furlough has been taken, will be treated as absence without pay. Such leaves of absence without pay result in a net saving to the appropriation concerned, as no pay accrues and the amounts of such savings will not be impounded. The foregoing applies equally to civilian employees and others subject to the legislative furlough of one calendar month or of periods aggregating 24 working days, except that where the period for which payment is made is less than one month, the deduction for each such period will be reduced accordingly.

b. How entered on vouchers.—War Department Form No. 336, Pay and Allowance Account, should be prepared in the usual manner with an additional remark on the blank line following item 16, as follows:

"Deduction, act June 30, 1932, ———— working days @ 1 1/4 days' pay each $ ————."

Notation of leaves of absences or legislative furlough should be entered under item 17, by inclusive dates. If no such absence occurs a statement to that effect will be made. When furlough deductions have been made for one full calendar month, or for 24 working days, each pay voucher thereafter until the end of the fiscal year will bear a notation "Furlough deductions completed." Disbursing officers will determine the amount of furlough deductions to be made, and will maintain, with respect to each officer paid by them, an individual record of the number of working days on which the officer is on furlough and the number of days' pay deducted. In cases of transfer within the fiscal year 1933, War Department Form 380, Transcript Statement of Account, will also show the number of working days' furlough taken and the number of days' pay deducted since July 1, 1932. Except as hereinafter indicated, the provisions of this paragraph relate to warrant officers, members of the Army nurse corps, and others who are paid on War Department Form No. 336.

c. Reserve officers.—In the case of reserve officers on active duty for two months or more, the procedure prescribed in b above will be observed. In the case of those on active duty for less than two months there will be deducted 8 1/3 per cent of all "compensation," as defined in Par. g, Sec. I. When paid on War Department Form No. 336, the following remark should be entered in the blank space following item 16: "8 1/3 per cent of pay deducted, act June 30, 1932, $ ————." When paid on pay roll, War Department Form No. 329, the column "Collections" should be changed to read: "8 1/3 per cent deducted, act June 30, 1932," and the deductions will be entered thereunder. Each reserve officer's voucher should bear a notation showing the grade held by him on June 30, 1932.

d. National Guard.—When payment is made to commissioned and warrant officers of the National Guard on W. W., M. B. Form No. 367, Army Drill Pay Roll, and W. D., M. B. Form No. 378, Field Training Pay Roll, the column "Amount of Stoppages" will be changed to read: "8 1/3 per cent deducted, act June 30, 1932," and the deductions will be entered thereunder. These payrolls should also show, with respect to each commissioned and warrant officer, the grade held by him on June 30, 1932.

e. Civilian employees.—On Standard Form No. 1013, Pay Roll (Civilian Employees), the caption in column "Other" under heading "Deductions," will be changed to read "Act June 30, 1932." When deductions are made for quarters, or stoppages are made for any other purpose, the amount of such deductions or stoppages will also be entered separately in the same column, with proper explanatory statement in column "Remarks." Similar modifications will be made on other forms of civilian pay rolls.

f. Retired pay.—Section 106 provides that during the fiscal year 1933 the retired pay of all military personnel (except enlisted) if more than $1,000 per annum, but less than $10,000 per annum, shall be subject to a deduction of 8 1/3 per cent. In paying retired officers, an additional column, headed "8 1/3 per cent deducted, act June 30, 1932," will be provided on W. D., F. D. Form No. 19, Pay Roll, Payments Made to Retired Officers and Enlisted men, and the deductions will be entered thereunder.

g. Standard Form 1077 has been prescribed for use in scheduling the deductions made on account of the legislative furlough, and compensation deductions. Except in cases of pay of the Army payable from procurement authority F. D. 135, such deductions will be considered by procuring officers as obligations against the proper procurement authorities, but amounts of pay deducted will not be included by disbursing officers in the amounts entered on schedule of disbursements.

h. The amounts of furlough and compensation deductions shown on the pay rolls and vouchers will be entered by disbursing officers on Standard Form 1077 by voucher number, appropriation, and amount, and be summarized so as to show the total of such deductions chargeable to each appropriation. On Standard Form 1024 for Group I, one of the blank columns under "Appropriations" will be headed: "Deducted act June 30, 1932," and the total thereof carried to the Form 1077 as one entry.

i. Positions vacant July 1, 1932, under the provisions of section 203 of the act will be scheduled by the proper administrative officers in alphabetical order on Standard Form 1078 by name of last incumbent, effective date of vacancy, annual rate of compensation, gross amount of compensation to cover said position to the close of the fiscal year as the amount to be returned to the Treasury, and the voucher number on which the incumbent was last paid. Standard Form 1078 will be summarized by appropriations and procurement authorities, and used as a voucher to support the charges on the administrative records to the appropriations, and credits to the respective reserve accounts. Thereafter, separate schedules on Standard Form 1078 will be prepared for each accounting period. In case a position is vacated at the close of a pay period, the name should be entered on the pay roll of the succeeding period only and the effective date of such vacancy shown in the "Remarks" column. Whenever necessary to make any adjustments of deductions previously made, the procedure outlined in paragraph 8, A. R. 35-4020, as amended by War Department Circular 27, 1932, with reference to similar adjustments on retirement deductions, will be observed. Standard Form 1078, completely executed, will be submitted, in quadruplicate, on or before the last day of each month.

j. Reports, how submitted.—Standard Forms 1077 and 1078 will be forwarded monthly, in triplicate, with the accounts current, the original and one carbon copy being marked "For the General Accounting Office." If, in any month, no vacancies occur, a report will nevertheless be made showing "No vacancies occurred during this month." An initial supply of Standard Forms 1077 and 1078 will be furnished by the chief of finance. Requests for further supplies should be submitted in the usual manner.

III. Annual Leave with Pay Suspended.—a. Section 103 suspends all rights to annual leave of absence with pay during the fiscal year 1933. The comptroller general has held that this section applies to military personnel (except enlisted men) as follows: Officers on ordinary leave; graduates of the U. S. Military Academy on graduation leave after being commissioned as second lieutenants; officers ordered to their homes to await retirement on own application after 30 or 40 years' service; officers ordered to their homes to await retirement on account of statutory age limit of 62 or 64; and officers to be retired by reason of failure to qualify physically for promotion; but that the provisions of this section do not apply to the superintendent, professors, assistant professors, instructors, and other officers of the U. S. Military Academy for the period of the suspension of their ordinary academic duties; to cadets of the U. S. Military Academy granted furloughs with pay during the summer vacation intervening between their second and third years; to cadets of the U. S. Military Academy granted furloughs with pay for the period of suspension of duties during the Christmas holidays; to officers on duty exclusively as instructors at the service schools during the suspension of their school duties; nor to officers ordered to their homes to await retirement on account of physical disability by reason of action of an Army retiring board which shall be granted as sick leave; civilian employees who are members of the National Guard or officers' reserve corps who are ordered to military training. (See Pars. 9 and 10, A. R. 35-3940.) The comptroller general also held that all accrued leave with pay is suspended during the fiscal year 1933.

b. Leave orders granting these excepted leaves, except in the case of cadets, should show the nature of the leave.

c. The method of computing absences, as set forth in paragraphs 3c, d, and e, A. R. 605-115, remains unchanged. Authority to be absent for a fraction of a day will not be granted in a published order.

d. When no legislative furlough is taken in any month, credit therefore accrues at the rate of two working days for each such month. For example: An officer takes no legislative furlough from July 1, 1932, to December 31, 1932. On January 1, 1933, he goes on legislative furlough for one calendar month. His pay voucher for January will show a deduction of 15 days' pay, the remaining 15 days' pay having been deducted during the preceding six months, and he need make no further deductions during the remainder of the fiscal year. Reductions in pay on account of leaves of absence after the legislative furlough of one calendar month, or for periods aggregating 24 working days, will be treated as shown in section II, supra.

e. The economy act provides that no officer or employee shall, without his consent, be furloughed for more than five days in any one calendar month. Suitable administrative action will be taken to insure compliance with this provision and with the compulsory furlough provisions. For example, if any officer or employee has taken no furlough by December 31, 1932, he will be required either to consent in writing to being subsequently furloughed for more than five days, or he will be furloughed for five days during each of the months from January, 1933, to June, 1933, inclusive.

f. Commanders of corps areas, departments and exempted stations, chiefs of branches and bureaus and military attaches will so administer the furlough provisions of the law that an excessive number of their officers or employees will not be absent during the closing month of the fiscal year.

g. Whenever it is impracticable to apply the furlough provisions of the act to any person, he will be considered as coming within the provisions of section 105 (d) (6) of the act, and a deduction will be made from monthly pay vouchers at a rate of 8 1/3 per centum, if his pay be more than $1,000 but less than $10,000.

h. Any person on furlough who is prevented by sickness from returning to duty upon the expiration of his furlough should forward to the proper commanding officer evidence from his physician as to the nature of his illness and request sick leave. The commander authorized to grant sick leaves will determine whether or not the sick leave should be granted.

i. The five-day week will not be put into effect for military personnel. For information regarding the five-day week, should it be made effective for civilian personnel with the War Department, see memorandum from the Secretary of War dated July 15, 1932, and Finance Bulletin No. 41, July 9, 1932.

IV.—Travel Allowances.—a. Statutory provisions.—Section 206 suspends all provisions of law authorizing payments of mileage to officers; provides that in lieu thereof they shall be entitled to allowances for travel only as provided for civilian employees; and provides that the subsistence expense act of 1916, as modified by sections 207-8 of the economy act and by the act of February 14, 1931, shall apply to such travel.

b. Travel regulations.—Travel allowances of civilian employees are set forth in Standardized Government Travel Regulations, 1931, and A. R. 35-4000, which are now made applicable to officers (including warrant officers) of the Army. The subsistence expense act of 1926 and the act of February 14, 1931, are published in page 72-5, Standardized Government Travel Regulations. The Executive Order of June 30, 1932, published in War Department Circular No. 29, July 6, 1932, temporarily continues the present Standardized Government Travel Regulations in force until amended, but revoke all provisions thereof relating to reimbursement of actual expenses for subsistence; limits per diem in lieu of subsistence at $5 within the limits of continental United States, prohibits reimbursement of gratuitous fees or tips of any kind, and places on the heads of departments and establishments the responsibility to see that travel orders authorize only such per diem rates as are justified by the nature of the travel.

c. Previous travel allowance laws suspended.—The comptroller general held in A-

43206, dated July 14, 1932, published in Finance Bulletin No. 46, 1932, that section 206 suspends all laws governing payment of mileage and travel allowances, whether by air or otherwise, except the subsistence expense act of 1926, and the act of February 14, 1931, and that it limits the reimbursement of travel allowances of officers to the amounts prescribed by those statutes and administrative regulations issued pursuant thereto.

d. Transportation requests.—Paragraph 20, Standardized Government Travel Regulations, requires that transportation requests be used when practicable where the amount involved is $1 or more. Transportation of officers is subject to land-grant deduction, and those who pay their own fares may be reimbursed only the net Government cost. Routing on transportation requests should be governed by paragraph 7, O. Q. M. G. Circular Letter No. 70, 1932.

e. Travel by automobile.—For regulations concerning reimbursement on mileage basis to officers traveling by their own automobiles, see paragraph 12a, Standardized Government Travel Regulations, and War Department Circular 18, 1931. The radiogram of June 30, 1932, authorizing payment at the rate of 4 cents per mile for travel by officers' own automobile as being more economical and advantageous to the United States related only to travel orders issued prior to that time for travel to be performed on or after July 1, and the radiogram of July 18 similarly modified such orders issued from July 1-18, inclusive, which became effective after July 18. In all subsequent orders the appropriate rate not exceeding 7 cents per mile will be stated, together with a statement that the travel directed at the rate prescribed is more economical and advantageous to the United States. The determination of the rate to be paid for travel by automobile will be based on the official distance, when available, and disbursing officers will make payments on the same basis. Any decreased cost on account of land grant should be taken into consideration in determining the rate to be authorized in the orders, but the rates having been so determined, disbursing officers will ignore land-grant mileage in the official distances, when travel is performed by automobile.

f. Per diem in lieu of subsistence.—Under sections 207-8 of the act, officers and civilian employees, while traveling, receive, instead of reimbursement of actual expenses for subsistence (a per diem not to exceed $5 for travel within the United States and an average of $6 for travel beyond the United States). The period for which per diem may be paid for travel will be limited to that required to perform the journey by common carrier, and in addition a per diem may be paid for any period of temporary duty.

g. Restriction on expenditures, fiscal year 1933.—No funds are available for the payment of per diem allowance to Regular Army officers on duty with the reserve officers, training corps, the citizens' military training camps or the Regular Army while at posts or encampments in connection with summer training activities during the fiscal year 1933.

h. Travel by Army transport.—For trips to be performed by Army transports the orders should provide that subsistence will be furnished at the expense of the United States. An officer performing a journey which would normally be performed in whole or in part, by an Army transport will, if authorized to travel overland for his own convenience, be entitled to only the allowances which he would have received had he traveled by the normal route.

i. Accounting procedure.—All travel expense accounts will be stated on Standard Form No. 1012, Public Voucher for Reimbursement of Travel Expenses, etc., and all accounts chargeable to Mileage of the Army will be entered on Group 2 of the Schedule of Disbursements as heretofore.

V. Miscellaneous Provisions.—a. Suspension of promotions and filling of vacancies.—Section 201 suspends all automatic increases in compensation by reason of length of service or promotion during the fiscal year 1933, but this section does not deprive any person of such increase received prior to July 1, 1932. This section does not affect enlisted men.

b. Same.—No administrative promotions in the civilian branch of the United States Government shall be made during the fiscal year 1933. The filling of a vacancy when authorized by the President, by the appointment of an employee of a lower grade, shall not be considered an administrative promotion, but no such appointment shall increase the compensation of such employee to a rate in excess of the minimum rate of the grade to which appointed unless such minimum rate would require an actual reduction in compensation.

c. Same.—Section 203 prohibits the filling of vacancies existing in civilian positions on June 30, 1932, or thereafter, but this prohibition does not apply (a) to absolutely essential positions the filling of which may be authorized or approved in writing by the President, and (b) to temporary, emergency, seasonal or cooperative positions. This section also provides that the appropriations of portions of appropriations unexpended by operation thereof shall not be used for any other purpose but shall be returned to the Treasury.

d. Retirement deductions, etc.—Section 205 provides that retirement deductions from the pay of civilian employees will be based on the regular rate of pay instead of the rate as temporarily reduced. The rates of deductions for allowances furnished in kind will also be based on the regular rate of pay instead of the rate as temporarily reduced.

e. Temporary reduction of fees to witnesses.—Section 323 provides that during the fiscal year 1933 the per diem fee authorized to be paid to witnesses other than Government employees, under section 3 of the act of April 6, 1926, shall be $1.50 instead of $2, and suspends the payment of per diem for expenses of subsistence. This effect a temporary modification of paragraph 3b, A. R. 35-4120.

f. Suspensions and repeals.—Section 802 of the economy act provides that all acts and parts of acts inconsistent or in conflict with those provisions of that act which are of temporary duration are hereby suspended during the period in which such provisions
